DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
  2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
  3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
  4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
1. Claims 1-7, 9-12 and 14-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Doniguian (U.S. Patent No. 3,680,557). Doniguian discloses an incubator comprising an oxygen source 21, an oxygen controller 34 and an oxygen sensor 32. Thus, Doniguian discloses the claimed invention with the exception of its respiratory support as comprising an electrically operated oxygen concentrator. However, Richey disclose such (oxygen concentrator being the sieve beds). The references are analogous since they are from the same field of endeavor, the respiratory/medical arts. At the time the instant application's invention was made, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have taken the features of Richey and used them with the device of Doniguian for the purpose of providing a patient with a high oxygen concentration for an extended period of time which can also be utilized in a home health care environment as taught by Richey (Richey, col. 1, lines 35-40).

Richey also discloses that said oxygen concentrator is a material comprising one of a pressure varying absorber based on zeolite.

Figs. 11 and 12 of Richey also discloses the use of a radial compressor to provide an airflow.

In regards to method claims 19-21, one of ordinary skill in the art would appreciate that the method steps claimed in the instant application would naturally flow from the device disclosed in the prior art as noted above and therefore are rejected herein above with respect to claims 1-3, 5-12 & 14-18.

2. Claims 4 & 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Doniguian and Richey as applied above, and further in view of Kutt et al (U. S. Patent No. 6,827,760).

In regards to claim 4, the suggested device discloses an oxygen sensor, but does not explicitly disclose the sensor as an electrochemical measuring cell. However, Kutt disclose such (col. 11, line 33). The references are analogous since they are from the same field of endeavor, the respiratory ads. At the time the instant application's invention was made, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have taken the features of Kutt and used them with the suggested device. The suggestion/motivation for doing so would have been to because the suggested device discloses the need for an oxygen sensor & Kutt discloses an oxygen sensor for a ventilator. Therefore it would have been obvious to combine the references to obtain the instant application's claimed invention.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
